

Computer Networks TCP/IP

The TCP/IP model has 4 layers: Application, Transport, Internet, Network Access. TCP provides reliable ordered delivery using 3-way handshake. UDP is connectionless and faster. IP addresses identify devices; subnetting divides networks using masks. DNS maps domain names to IPs. HTTP runs on port 80, HTTPS on 443. Routers forward packets between networks using routing tables.