

Economics: Supply and Demand

Demand decreases as price increases, all else equal. Supply shows positive price-quantity relationship. Equilibrium is where supply meets demand. Price elasticity measures responsiveness to price change. PED greater than 1 means elastic; less than 1 means inelastic. Consumer surplus is the area above price and below demand curve. GDP measures total economic output. Inflation is a sustained rise in the general price level.