

Organic Chemistry Reactions

SN1 reactions proceed via a carbocation intermediate; rate depends only on substrate concentration. SN2 involves backside nucleophilic attack; rate depends on both substrate and nucleophile. Tertiary substrates favor SN1; primary substrates favor SN2. Polar protic solvents stabilize SN1; polar aprotic solvents favor SN2. Elimination reactions (E1, E2) compete with substitution reactions depending on conditions.